There are five key words that we all must know. These are:

Inherent - which means rights are yours because you are born a human.

Indivisible - no right is more important than another one right.

Inalienable - rights cannot be given away.

Universal - they are for ALL children (anyone under 18), everywhere, all the time.

Unconditional - they are not a reward and are not dependent on a responsibility, or action. Our actions should respect the rights of others and not deny.
